REYNOLDSVILLE IN THE NINTH

Neither Side Could Score for Eight Innings Yesterday

WAS GREAT PITCHERS' BATTLE

Adams Twirled the Ball in Remarkable Manner—Tomorrow the Niagara Falls Team, Which Played a Ten-Inning Game With DuBois Yesterday, Will Be at Driving Park

The small crowd of fans who journeyed to the Driving park yesterday afternoon to witness the game of baseball between Clearfield and Reynoldsville were will repaid for their trouble. That the game yesterday was the best played in Clearfield for som eyears was attended to by those who saw these two teams battling for two hours after the manner of giants.

"Billy" Adams for the locals, pitched a remarkable game against the hard hitters from Reynoldsville. It was only in the ninth innig that the Jefferson county players could bunch their hits and get across the plate with the one run that won the game.

The game was full of interest from beginnig to ed, both teame fighting hard for supremacy. In the 9th inning the first Reynoldsville man up hit for two bases and the next batter brought him across the plate with a hit.

Each pitcher struck out six men? bases on balls, off Kase 1, off Adams 2; double plays, Thompson, Kennedy.

Score by innings:

Niagra Falls Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the Niagara Falls team will play the local team at Driving park and on Saturday the Pennsylvania Railroad Y. M. C. A. team from Altoona will be here.

These will positively be the last games the Clearfield team will play this season. The patronage of the games has not been satisfactory, and Manager Healey cannot continue to make up deficits out of his own pocket.

The games tomorrow and Saturday should be well patronized as both of the visiting teams are strong and good contests are promised.

The Niagara Falls team which will play here tomorrow defeated Johnsonburg and Ridgway and yesterday played a ten-inning tie game with DuBois, therfeore fans may expect to witness a good game here. The Clearfield team is determined to win the game tomorrow, and they should be encouraged to do so by a large crowd of rooters at the park.

CIVIL COURT

Only One Verdict Returned Thus Far This Week.

In the case of Richard S. Hughes vs the Osceola Coal company, on before the court Wednesday when the Progress went to press, a non suit was entered.

A verdict was rendered in the case of William Gourski vs. Fred Loeb et al., the jury remaining out all night.

Settlement was had in the cases of Otto Caskey vs. Lane Run Coal Co., and William Caskey vs. the same company.

The case of Dr. H. A. Collins vs. August Bra[illegible] on trial.

A KIND ACTION

Body of Manager McCullough Taken Charge of by Another Manager.

The body of Manager McCullough, the "Common Law" company was shipped to Pittsburgh today and the funeral will occur tomorrow. This was in accordance with the request of the widow at Stockton, California.

Manager McDonald, of the "Within the Law" company, took charge of the remains of Mr. McCullough, going to considerable trouble to pay his respects to his fellow theatrical manager coming from DuBois to make arrangements for forwarding the body.

TWO ACCIDENTS

One Man Has Thumb Hurt and Another Has Foot Hurt.

Two accidents occurred on the West Side Wednesday, where heavy water pipe is being unloaded. King Shaw had his thumb crushed early in the day by having a pipe fall on his hand and in the afternoon William McKee had his foot badly hurt from a similar cause.

JOHN J. UZZLE DEAD

Well Known Resident of Snow Shoe Passes Away Tuesday.

John J. Uzzle, one of the best known residents of Snow Shoe, died Tuesday in his 80th year.

John Uzzle was known to many of the hunters in the West Branch valley, having entertained at his hotel nimrods who searched for game in the mountains of that section. He was a genial gentleman, and a great lover of nature. His deer park was visited by thousands of persons in th past twenty years.

THE MAN IN THE ORIENT.

He Walks Ahead of His Wife to Guard Her From Danger.

When husband and wife go traveling together in the orient the man walks in front, careless and free, and the woman walks behind, carrying the bundle. Therefore you say: "The oriental cares not for his women. He despises his wife and uses her as a beast of burden." Most occidentals never get further than that. But if you are observant you go out in the jungle yourself, and you discover things. When you walk abroad there are difficulties and dangers. The paths are overgrown and thorny, creepers must be driven off, and buffaloes are ugly creatures.

In the villages are village dogs which snarl and snap. You are a man, yet you will be glad of some one to go in front of you with a hatchet to clear your way. No woman would walk in front, and the man must be free. Now you see the reason why the man walks in front. If you want to confirm it you inquire and find that this is true. Thus the Japanese, the Burman, goes in front of his wife for the same reason that the occidental goes behind—from courtesy. If he continues to do so when it is unnecessary, as in towns where there are roads, it is because a convention once formed is hard to break, east or west.—H. Fielding-Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

A DOG IN A GALE.

Able to Keep His Feet Where a Man Would Be Blown Away.

A gale that blows a man off his feet does not bother a dog at all. He will run about unconcernedly while his master walks with the greatest difficulty. This is for the same reason that a high building is more affected than a low one by a gale. It is also because the dog has four legs to support his body, while a man has only two.

With topsails set a yacht would capsize in a gale which it would ride out with safety if only its lower sails were set, for the leverage exerted by the wind increases in proportion to the height at which the sails are set. A man by reason of his height receives far more force from the wind than does a dog.

Then, again, a dog's center of gravity is much lower in proportion to his height than is a man's; consequently he is not nearly so tippy. And it is obvious that any object supported on four legs is more stable than if supported on two.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

His Cleverness.

"Don't be so lazy. There's plenty of room at the top, and you're clever enough to get there."

"But," replied the lazy genius, "think how clever it is of me to find a place at the bottom, where there isn't so much room."

CONSUL BEN CHASE RECEIVES PROMOTION

President Wilson Advances the Well Known Clearfielder

Hon Ben F. Chase, now Consul to Leeds, England, has been promoted.

Mr. Chase, if the senate confirms his appointment, will go ta Leghorn, on the west coast of Italy, about 200 miles from Rome.

The many friends of the consul in Clearfield county will be pleased to learn that Mr. Chase's ability has been recognized by the present administration.

Jordan Sale Tomorrow.

The constable's sale of the restaurant property of Ralph Jordan is advertised to take place tomorrow, and there is some curiosity to learn who will do the bidding for the articles.

Boys Stealing Grapes.

Boys have been entering gardens in some parts of town, especially east of Third street and North of Locust, stealing grapes. The names of these boys are being secured and their parents will be called on to pay for the stolen fruit

FARM WOMEN ARE TO BE STUDIED

Most Neglected Factor in the Rural Problem

SUGGESTIONS ARE ASKED

Department of Agriculture Will Write to Wives and Daughters of Farmer and Learn How to Improve the Service for These Women—50,000 Letters to be Sent Out.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 11.—David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, within the next few days will address a letter to the women members of 50,000 farm households throughout the United States, requesting them to give him information as to how the department of agriculture can best serve the needs of farm women.

These letter will be addressed "To Housewives in the Homes of the Official Crop Correspondents" and will be sent to the full list of Crop Correspondents for transmission to the women members of their households. With each letter will be supplied a return envelope in which women can forward their suggestions.

Farm Women Neglected.

This inquiry results from receipt of a letter addressed to the secretary in which the writer said:

"The farm woman has been the most neglected factor in the rural problem and she has been especially neglected by the national department of agriculture."

This letter was written not by a woman but by a broad-minded man so thoroughly in touch with the agricultural and domestic needs of the country that his opinions have great weight. Following the receipt of this letter, the secretary determined that the best way for the department to learn how to give these women the fullest possible aid and service which their important place in agriculture production warrants, was to write to the women themselves and ask them to make their own suggestions.

Asked For Information.

In the letter the women are invited to give individual answers to the letter or to discuss the matter in their church societies or women's organizations and send answers representing the combined opinions of the women of their entire communities. The answers are requested not latter than November 15th and this date is set because it will give the women time after harvest to consider the matter and discuss it with their women neighbors.

This letter will go to about twenty leading farms in each of the twenty-eight hundred counties of the United States. Their answers, it is expected will represent the views and opinions of upward of 500,000 farm women. These answers will be carefully considered by the specialists of the department having to do with that branch of agricultural activity.

Freaks of Memory.

As to freaks of memory, Mark Twain has told us of the pilot who knew every bend, creek, current and shallow in the Mississippi river throughout its whole mighty length, but could not remember what he had had for breakfast. Probably most memories are like that. One man I know has a memory that apparently collects only figures. He can always remember your age, even if he forgets your name. He will memorize easily the times of all the trains to a given place, but he generally forgets the platforms from which they start. Reel off to him a column of statistics, and he will recite them again to you a month later without a mistake, having in the meantime forgotten everything else about you. But then he is a born mathematician. Evidently memory is largely a question of sympathy. We remember the things we are really interested in.—London Chronicle.

Advice to Consumptives.

The only safe course for a person suffering from consumption is to select a good physician and be guided in all things by that physician's advice.

If a new cure is discovered during your illness your doctor will know it. If the cure is genuine he will know that and be the first to insist on applying the new remedy to your case. If the so called cure is a fake his caution will save you from wasting valuable time and strength pursuing will-o'-the-wisps.

Meantime, while waiting on new discoveries, he will keep you on the commonplace but effective prescription of rest, plentiful diet and all the fresh air there is. This regime has cured tens of thousands of cases of tuberculosis and will cure hundreds of thousands more.—Chicago Journal.

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Will be Under Charge of Expert Instructor.

C. H. Folmsbee, the new physical director of the Clearfield Y. M. C. A., arrived here Wednesday and immediately entered upon his duties. Mr. Folmsbee comes here from Binghampton, New York, where he was assistant physical director of the Parlor City Y. M. C. A.

With the excellent material that is to be found among the athletes of the local association the new physical director should be able to produce first class teams in the various sports of the day.

Chicken and Corn Soup.

Chicken and corn soup will be served in the U. B. church tomorrow (Friday) evening from 5 to 8 o'clock. Supper 25 cents. Ice cream and cake extra. Everybody cordially invited.

PUZZLED THE CAPTAIN.

The Mysterious Dane Who Boarded His Vessel at Hamburg.

The captain of a vessel which was bringing to America in the fall of 1790 a mysterious passenger who had come aboard at Hamburg watched the latter so closely that at last the passenger said one day: "Sir, this is not the first occasion upon which I have observed the attentive scrutiny you bestow upon me. May I inquire the reason?"

"Sir," responded the candid captain, "you took passage on my ship as a Dane. I don't believe you're anything of the kind."

The passenger smiled. The smile was full of perspicacity and confidence and was followed with, "Pray, tell me, then, what you believe me to be?"

At this question Captain Ewing fidgeted, hesitated and finally blurted out: "Well, to be honest, I think you are a gambler. You've well nigh ruined yourself at home and are now coming to fleece the fools you'll find on shore."

The young man's smile broadened. The next minute he turned grave again, lowered his voice and replied: "Captain Ewing, as you have studied me during this voyage, so I have studied you. I have come to the conclusion that you are a man to be trusted. I am Louis Philippe, duc d'Orleans, eldest son of that Louis Philippe d'Orleans who was slain by the guillotine on the 7th of November, almost three years ago."

She Knew.

"Miss Janet is a long time coming down," he said to the pretty parlor maid. "Perhaps she is—ha, ha—perhaps she is making up her mind whether to see me or not."

The maid smiled coldly.

"No," she said; "it is not her mind she is making up."—Philadelphia Ledger.

DEATH OF PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN

W. P. Eckels, with Leonardson Company, Expires at Kane

W. P. Eckels, secretary and treasurer of the A. W. Leonardson Dry Goods company, Clearfield and Kane, died at his home in Kane Tuesday night after an illness which had affected him all summer. Mr. Eckels has frequently visited the Clearfield stores, having been here at the meeting of the company not long ago.

Mr. Eckels was the son of Rev John Eckels and was born in Greenville, May 22, 1853. He attended public school and later was a student at Allegheny college, graduating from that institution in 1870, receiving his A. B. ad M. A. degrees. In 1881 he went to Kane and filled the position of principal of public schools there for six years. He was elected county superintendent of schools serving nine years, following this, with serving as principal of the Smethport schools for four years.

In 1900 he returned to Kane and for eight years was treasurer of the Kane Window Glass company, leaving this position to connect himself with the Leonardson company, remaining with that company until his death He was financially interested in the Kane Bank and Trust company, and the Kane Window Glass company. He was prominent in the Kane Business Men's association. He was a prominent Mason and a consistent and active church member.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at Kane and will be in charge of the Masons. The store in Clearfield will be closed from 2 to 4 tomorrow out of respect for the memory of the dead member.

Mr. Eckels is survived by his widow and two children.

SPLENDID SHOW DELIGHTS MANY

"Within the Law" Given to a Record-Breaking Audience

GAVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION

Play Highly Moral in Its Teachings And Was Acted in Most Excellent Manner—It Was Probably the Best Performance of the Kind Given Here in Years.

"Within the Law," one of the great metropolitan successes of the past season, was the offering at the Clearfield opera house Wednesday night The presentation of this great play here received a royal ovation, the house being packed and scores of persons standing throughout the performance.

A great story, splendid senic effect, and a strong company combine to make "Within the Law" a play of a thousand. Those who were fortunate enough to witness the production are not surprised that it should receive the endorsement of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, President Wilson, and other notable men.

"Within the Law" is a play of today, in four acts, the place being New York City, the time, the present. The first scene shows the private office of Edward Gilder, owner of the great Emporium. Mary Turner, an employee, has been arrested for a theft of goods, of which she sweears she is innocent. With the assistance of Gilder, who desires to make an example of her, she is sent to prison for three years. Mary secures an interview with the head of the establishment, and tells him that if he will pay his employees a living wage, they will not steal. A girl, she tells him, cannot lead a respectable life in the city on six dollars a week.

Act two shows Mary Turner's apartments in Gramercy Park, four years later. Mary after her release from prison, is at the head of a band of crooks, but she is keeping within the law, and is realizing large spoils as a result of cleverness. Agnes Lynch and Joe Garson, both part of the shady world, are her companions. Mary succeeds in infatuating Richard Gilder, son of Edward Gilder. They are married, and the police come to inform Mary, Carson and Agnes that they must leave for Chicago, or Inspector Burke will find a way to "send them up".

Act three shows Edward Gilder's library. Burke hires a crook to interest Garson in robbing Gilder's home when the inspector will "get" the crowd. Mary knows nothing of this as she insists that all of their operations must be "within the law". The inspector gets word to her, and she gains entrance into the Gilder home, begging Garson to desist. It is too late. Young Gilder finds them there and Garson kills the man who deceives him. The others get away.

At the office of Inspector Burke at police headquarters next morning, Garson is given the "third degree" and confesses to save Mary, whom the Inspector accuses of having committed the murder.

'You can't beat the law, there's a weak link somewhere," says the Inspector, and Gilder succeeds in winning Mary back to an honest life.

The play presents a powerful moral and that the really remarkable company presenting it was appreciated here was evidenced by the storms of applause and repeated curtain calls accorded the stars.

The management of the Clearfield Opera House is to be congratulated upon securing at the very start of the season, a play such as "Within the Law."

NOT ALL JUDGES

Some Humor Injected Into the Judicial Campaign.

Wednesday two gentlemen standing in front of the Trust building were approached by a stranger who inquired.

"Are you gentlemen judges?"

"No," replied one of the citizens.

'Well," said the stranger," that's strange. I've been in town two days and every man I have met is either a judge or a candidate for judge."

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Woodland Young People Erjoy a Pleasant Evening.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Sarah Lamich at Woodland, in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Alma, Wednesday. Many good games were played and delicious refreshmen were served. Those present were:

Misses Jennie and Alice Myers, Emma Hummll, Pearl Barger and Ivi Baugardner; Messrs. Charley Feight, Cooper, Ordie Meise and Charlie Davi and brother, of Clearfield, and Lee and Bintus McDowell and Carl Hummell.

All departed for their homes, declaring that they had had a fine time and wishing Miss Alma more happy brithdays.

RAILROAD TRESPASSING

In issuing a warning to the public to keep off its right of way the New York Central Railway company joins other railroad corporations in an attempt to prevent the killing of pedestrians who have a penchant for perambulating upon railroad tracks. There are people who will ignore this caution, and in time they will join those who in the past acted just as thoughtlessly and who are now far removed from railroad activities.

Turn a flock of hens loose in a ten acre field and every last one of them will make a break for a patch of weeds in a four-by-six enclosure surrounded by a twenty foot fence nearby. Turn a hundred persons into the byways and they will gradually gravitate to the railroad tracks, be the walking ever so good in the highways. This may not prove that human beings partake of the characteristics of fowls, but it does indicate that there is an irresistible impulse in the human breast which forces men to walk on railroad tracks when it is less dangerous to walk on the highways.

Despite the many warnings and arrests the number of persons killed by walking on the railroads exceeds the number of persons killed at grade crossings in this state. Keep off the railroad. The rails are laid for the use of locomotives, not of human beings, and sooner or later the locomotive will get the man who persists in using the railroad as a path to his destination.

AUTUMN ARBOR DAY.

In issuing his announcement of the autumn Arbor date as October 24, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer states that the "trees are our friends." This is a truism which has come home to many people in this state, but which has been too long ignored by many other The owner of trees is too often inclined to look upon them as incumbrances of his land,and in many instances while forests were destroyed in order that lumbermen might reap a little temporary profit.

Whether a tree affords shade or is of commercial value it ought to be protected from injury, if possible. When of marketable size a tree may be cut down, but for every tree that is converted into lumber another tree should be planted. It has only been in late years that the people of Pennsylvania have been awakened to the necessity for planting trees to replace those so ruthlessly destroyed in the past. Even the railroads which are now planting hundreds of thousands of trees annually, were indifferent to reforestration until a few years ago.

Clearfield derives much of her beauty from the trees which line her streets and afford shade in summer and protect the citizens from the cold blast in winter. Many of the trees in this town have been neglected and their present codition has confronted the shade tree commission with a problem not easily nor readily solved. Unless the advice of the friends of the trees and of those who wish to restore to some extent the damage that was done years ago is adopted by the public the future will see the hills and valleys of Pennsylvania children should be taught the value of arbor days and be persuaded to plant trees whenever the occasion presents itself.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Whatever other deductions may be drawn from the election in Maine on Monday, it must be pain that the voters of that state desire to register their emphatic disapproval of the policies of the present Democratic national administration. The administration sought to encompass the election of a Democrat to congress in the Third Maine district for the purpose of inspiring the voters of the party with the spirit of faith and confidence in President Wilson. The Dmeocratic candidate, while a good man, was defeated, although the district went strongly Democratic two years ago and gave Wilson a big majority last fall.

The Democratic juggling with the tariff has caused a revolt against the party, not only in Maine, but in every northern state, and the passage by the senate of the tarif bill forced upon congress by President Wilson is certain to be the rock upon which the Democratic party will split wide apart in the next presidential election The relatively small vote cast by the Progressives in the Third Maine district may be explained upon the hypothesis that Progressives stood by the policy of protection rather the that they had become weary of remaining outside the Republican ranks

Mrs. Pankhurst has disappeared. No, it is not a certainty that she has immolated herself for the good of the cause.

The stage will never be elevated in New York so long as people of degenerate minds patronize immoral shows.

Whose duty is to see that small boys are not sold or given cigarettes?

Another comet is said to be coming toward the earth, but it will have to hurry if it wants to get here before the primary elections.

Somebody suggests that the United States exchnage Harry K. Thaw for Mrs. Pankhurst. Sure, and throw in Jerome to boot.

The fly that is swatted now will not come back to bother you next summer.

TRICKS OF LIGHT.

Why People Sometimes Feel Dull or Uncomfortable at Table.

How few people realize that they are actually suffering from snow blindness in miniature every time they read or work over a white surface on which a brilliant light shines directly. Half tone paper, for instance, which is the common medium for the majority of books we read, will throw a blinding glare into the eye of the reader if the light strikes it at the wrong angle, and it forms an excellent test for the selection of proper lighting for a room and for the placing of the lighting fixtures, for lighting diffusion should be such as to allow comfortable reading from half tone paper in any position.

A dome hanging above a dining table on which is white cloth causes the light to reflect into the eyes of those around the table at an angle that produces muscular strain. This has a peculiar effect upon the senses, and drowsiness and mental inertia are apt to result. People are apt to complain of a feeling of dullness at table or that they have indigestion when it is, in reality, the effect of the light.

A too brilliant light shining directly into the eye plays many curious psychological tricks. Deaf people, for instance, cannot hear so well if they are facing a brilliantly lighted room, and, as for being able to see better by a bright light than by a dim one, exactly the reverse is the case, for detail of objects become practically lost to the eye when too much light enters it.—Suburban Life Magazine.

Persuasion.

"I can't marry you," she said. "You are old enough to be my father."

"Don't hesitate on that account. Ten years from now nobody will suspect it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Imitative.

Mother—Whatever are you doing to poor dolly, child? Child—I'm just going to put her to bed, mummy. I've taken off her hair, but I can't get her teeth out.—London Tit-Bits.

ANTIS BEFORE CONGRESS.

Rival Woman's Organizations In Washington Avert Dullness of Midsummer. Midair Gatherings Said to Be Highly Successful—Reach Many Unbelievers Hitherto Unapproachable.

Washington, ——Special.—While their unconverted sisters were insisting before the house rules committee that a majority of their sex did not want the ballot, delegates to the National Council of Women Voters met to discuss ways and means for winning universal suffrage throughout the country. The sessions have been devoted to consideration of policies and reforms to be pressed in 1914.

At the early session the principal subject considered was the legislative proposals to be advanced by women next year in those suffrage states in which the legislatures meet. Miss Helen Todd of California led the discussion. Reports on suffrage conditions in Alaska were made by Mrs. James Wickersham, wife of the delegate from the territory; in Illinois by Mrs. Claudius U. Stone and in Kansas by Mrs. Victor Murdock, wife of the representative from that state.

The anti-suffragists had their innings when, led by Mrs. F. W. Scott of New York, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, they appeared for an informal hearing before Chairman Henry and members of the house rules committee.

They were prepared to prove, they told the committee, that the agitation was kept up by a comparatively small number, and that the great majority of American women looked with disfavor upon their sex entering the turmoil of politics.

Pros Hold Roof Rallies.

Suffragists have launched a campaign on the roofs of scores of apartment houses. In one fashionable quarter of the northwest section the apartment buildings are so closely packed together that speakers for the "cause" have been enabled to address audiences on two and sometimes three, roofs at one speaking.

The roof garden rallies are said by the crusaders to be highly successful, as they are enabling them to reach unbelievers who will not attend their street meetings.

ARGENTINE ENVOY COMING.

To Thank United States For Its Part In Centennial Celebration

Buenos Aires, Argentina, ——Senator Don Benito Villanueva, the head of the special mission which will proceed to Washington to thank the United States government for its participation in Argentina's centennial celebration, leaves here at the end of September

He will travel by way of Chile and will then visit the Panama canal before going to Washington. Afterward he will go as special envoy to the Asiatic nations.

Mother and Babies Fatally Hurt.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Stephen Drokowski and her twin babies, whom she was wheeling in a gocart, were fatally injured when struck by the Monon flier at a south side crossing. The babies were thrown about twenty-five feet on opposite sides of the track.

One of the many strange sights on the plains of southern Africa is a party of waltzing ostriches. Their queer antics have been described thus:

"When there are a number of them they will start off in the morning and after running a few hundred yards will stop and with raised wings will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting and to make their court. They kneel on their ankles, opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The birds appear at this time so absorbed in their occupation as to forget all that is going on around them and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."

Puzzled Jurymen.

At a recent sessions a prisoner was indicted for pocketpicking, and to most people in court the clearest possible case was made out by the prosecution.

"Have you anything you would like to tell the jury before they retire?" said the judge.

"Well, all I wanter say is, I hopes as 'ow they'll give me the benefit of the doubt," replied the prisoner despondently.

The jury considered their verdict. They were no little time over it.

"Can I assist you in any way, gentlemen?" said the judge, as last becoming impatient.

"We are almost agreed, me lud," said the foreman, "but we can't quite understand what the doubt is the prisoner wishes us to give him the benefit of."—London Anawers.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS

Many to be Held in Clearfield County

STRONG SPEAKERS ENGAGED

These Gatherings Have Been Arranged With a View to Arousing the People to the Necessity For Taking Greater Interest in Judgship Campaign—Dates of Meetings.

Meetings have been arranged by the Temprance Workers League of Clearfield county for practically every district in the county, prior to the primary election, Tuesday September 16.

Some of the strongest speakers in the county will present the cause of the Temperance Workers League, touching especially on the Judgeship contest.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come out and hear the discussions. Ladies are especially welcome. The Temperance Workers League representing the Prohibition party, the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. VANISHED WILD PIGEONS.

Once They Darkened Our Skies, but Are Never Seen Now.

Old residents of Olean—some of them not so very old, either—remember distinctly the time when flocks of wild pigeons flew over the then straggling village of Olean in such countless numbers as to almost obscure the very sky, when flock followed flock in such close succession as to partly give the impression that each was but the separated group and companion voyagers of the flock that had but just passed overhead on swiftly whirring wings. These flocks passed in one long procession for days at a time in the early spring and even for weeks. Thousands and even hundreds of thousands of them, if the reports of those days were to be taken implicitly, nested in the woods of Alton and Big Shanty, a short distance across the Pennsylvania line.

All at once these myriad flocks of pigeons ceased to come—disappeared abruptly, mysteriously, and apparently forever. Whence did they go so suddenly and so completely? No one has yet been able to answer that question. Since that time game authorities and naturalists have searched in vain for further traces of the birds, not only in this vicinity, but all over North America. Large sums have been offered by magazines as well as individuals for a nest or even a single egg of the passenger pigeon.—Olean (N. Y.) Times.

Gladstone on Disraeli.

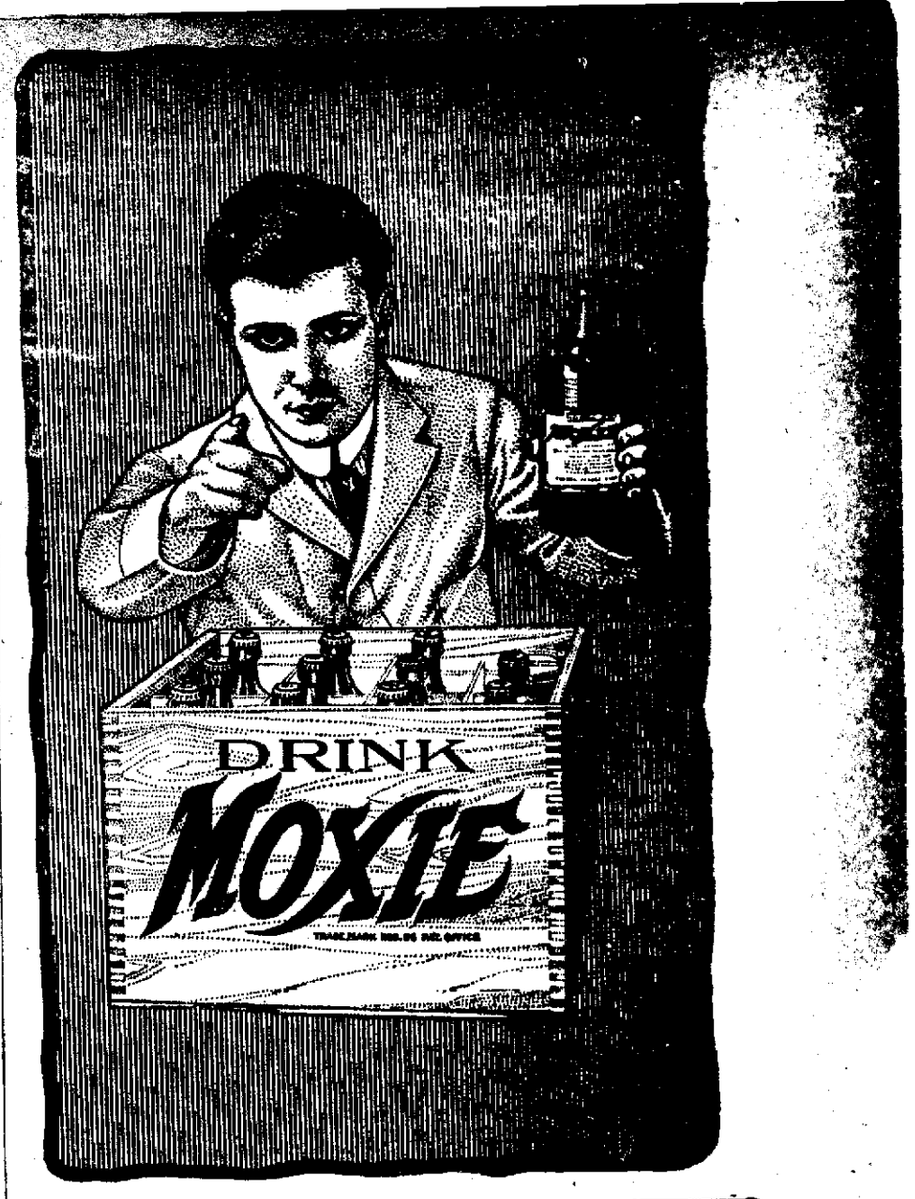
G. A. Storey, A. R. A., recorded a touching incident he witnessed at the academy banquet of 1881 when a portrait for which Beaconsfield had sat to Millais shortly before his death was among the exhibits. "This unfinished work, pale and even ghastly, was in one of the side galleries. Gladstone, catching sight of the picture, went and stood long in front of it. * * * No one disturbed him. At the end of the feast Gladstone rose and in the finest and most feeling tone delivered a panegyric on the great man who had passed away. In a voice clear and sympathetic and full of emotion he told us of his admiration for the sterling qualities of the man who, though opposed to him in politics, was in no other sense an opponent. He spoke as only one generous in heart and of a broad and great mind could speak of another great man who had passed away. The speech surpassed anything I ever heard."—London Chronicle.

A Park of Glaciers.

Glacier National park is situated in northern Montana, 260 miles northwest of Yellowstone park in an air line and 447 miles by railroad. It is under the control and supervision of the secretary of the interior, who is represented in the actual administration of the park by a superintendent, assisted by a number of park rangers who patrol the reservation. The park is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfoot reservation and on the west and south by the Flathead river. It has an area of about 915,000 acres and derives its name from many glaciers which are scattered throughout its area. There are eighty glaciers between five square miles and a few acres in area. The park is a rugged mountainous region and contains over 250 lakes, which are surrounded by steep and beautifully wooded mountains.

Time in Teheran.

"Time is a difficult problem in Teheran," says the Baroness d'Hermalle in "Peeps Into Persia." "At approximately midday a cannon is fired on the Cossack parade ground, but the approximation depends entirely on the soldier who fires it. We all think he fires it when he feels hungry, as it is very erratic. Anyhow, when invited out to dinner we always inquire of our host whether he keeps legation or gun time. Sometimes there is half an hour's difference. Neither of these times is ordinarily correct. Correct time, not a commodity in request in Teheran, is kept by the Indo-European telegraphs, for whom it is telegraphed from London every morning at daybreak, when the line is clear, so that connection is practically instantaneous."



One or the Other.

Her class was bright, and the teacher was proud of it. She was conducting a quiz in geography.

"In what zone do we live?" asked the teacher.

"The temp'rut zone," chanted the well drilled class.

"Right. And what do we mean by 'temperate?' Willie, you may answer."

"Temp'rut is where it's freezin' cold half the time an' roastin' hot the other half the time."

If Willie wasn't sent to the head for that it wasn't because he didn't deserve the honor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Official Rat Catchers.

One of the earliest of official rat catchers appears to have been a woman. An English warrant dated 1635 announces that, "Whereas, Elizabeth Wickley is employed in killing of rattes and other vermins, in and about His Ma'te's Stores and Houses in ye Tower of London, I have therefore thought fitt to allow her ye sum of eight pounds ($40) per annum." During the next century the office was invested with great dignity, and the Gentleman's Magazine for 1741 recorded the appointment of Mr. Gower as rat killer to his majesty, "a place of £100 (about $500) a year, an honorable office."

A Profit-Sharing Agency Plan

We now have in operation in the United States and Canada more than 15,000 Oliver Local Agencies. These agents have received hundreds of thousands of dollars in profits on sales of Oliver Typewriters.

There are still hundreds of places where no agencies are established.

Applicants for Oliver Local Agencies must be earnest workers. They need not have had previous experience.

We enroll them at once in The Oliver School of Practical Salesmanship and teach them selling—all as part of the free training given Oliver Agents.

When they have proved their worth, we promote them to the direct service, in which they may rise to the highest positions in the Company.

One of our general officials began his Oliver career as a Local Agent at Waco, Texas.

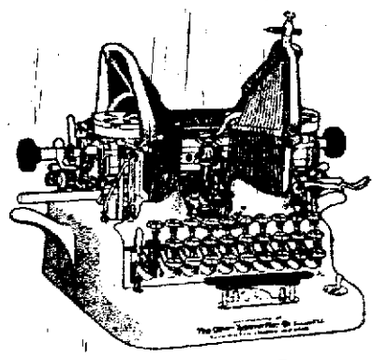
Printype—OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

The Oliver is the best seller because it is the best typewriter. It has many exclusive features. It is the only typewriter that PRINTS PRINT. It really owns and controls Printype, now conceded to be the greatest single advance ever made in typewriter construction.

We GUARANTEE Printype to be exclusively used on Oliver Typewrters.

Oliver Agents sell Printype Olivers in thousands. The demand is voluntary and steady.



Oliver Agents are permitted to sell on our 17-cents-a-Day Plan, which puts the Oliver in evenyone's reach. Agents may even secure their own sample outfits on the 17-Cents-a-day Plan and let their agency earnings help to carry the deal.

Oliver agents are protected in exclusive selling rights in the territory given them. They own the local typewriter business.

When you apply, be sure to give some details about the typewriter sales possibilities of your town, village or city.

And Don't Delay

We like and reward promptness.

Full details of Agency Proposition, a specimen of Printype, the 17-Cents-a-Day Plan and other interesting information will be sent immediately on receipt of your application.

A RESUME ON ROOSTS.

Poultry house furniture should be cheap, simple, take up little room, just fit the flock and be movable for quick cleaning and transfer.

Roosts should have these characteristics. We present two for inspection:

The first shows a set with dropping boards nailed up in a corner. This roost is too heavy, costly, it cannot be moved for cleaning and red mites or ticks will hide and breed behind it like bedbugs in the cracks of a bughouse building, and if these poultry pests once get a hold a continuous fight must be kept up and often the roost be torn out to get at them. Same with stationary nests.

The second is a cheap, simple affair made of trestles, slats and a low platform, low down for big breeds. Additional trestles may be used to raise the dropping boards off of floor for lighter breeds, and thus the only floor space occupied will be by toes of trestles.

This roost does not touch the wall, may be taken down and out for cleaning in a few minutes, is transferable and may be moved to the windows or set up in the yard in hot weather.

OUR FAVORITE ROOST.

Much of poultry vigor and poultry profit are lost through the ravages of insect pests, and the poultryman who neglects to use every precaution against these destroyers need not expect full success.

DON'TS.

Don't try to raise poultry in town without a fence or your neighbors will quickly take offense.

Don't work with one eye on the clock and the other on the boss. You'll get caught in the cogs and go to the dogs.

Don't bite off more chicklets than you can chew. Better hatch a reasonable number and raise them than to hatch a lot and raise them not.

Don't forget that every egg that doesn't hatch and every chick that dies is so much off the profit. The financial finale depends on the detail.

Don't over the first batches go crazy and over the others get lazy. Be enthusiastic, optimistic and industrious all the way through in what you do and providence will favor you.

Don't waste time arguing about breeds and methods. If you're sure you're right then go ahead, but don't be a bullhead.

Don't expect your wife to make much on mongrel hens. Thoroughbred strains for beauty and gains.

Don't sell preserved eggs for fresh. Some customer slick will see through your trick you'll be jerked up quick and then what a shame for a few pennies gain you've lost your good name.

TURKEYS AT SHOWS.

It is often wondered why more turkeys are not seen at exhibitions, but there are reasons.

Turkeys are range birds, and the close confinement at shows is very hard on them.

In many cases they refuse to eat and they are so difficult to cage and handle that many shows offer no prizes and refuse to receive them.

Beside most turkey raisers refuse to raise turkeys to comply with show requirements, especially in regard to feather markings and weights as demanded by the American Poultry association, whose rules govern so many shows and fairs.

A brown wing feather, a primary with less than half the white bars, a single white feather, a brown feather in tail coverts, should not disqualify a fine Bronze.

Nor should one slate feather debar a Narragansett, nor a gray quill disqualify a White Holland, and it's the same with weights.

A FANCY SHOW TURKEY.

For instance standard weights for Bronze are: Adult cock, thirty-six pounds; yearling cock, thirty-three pounds; cockerel, twenty-five pounds; hen, twenty pounds; pullet, fifteen pounds.

The market call for turkeys is medium weight and heavyweights are bad breeders. Yet, if a Bronze fancier enters a turkey cock that weighs less than thirty pounds, a yearling under twenty-five, a cockerel less than eighteen, a hen less than fourteen, a pullet under ten pounds weight, they are all disqualified.

Such weight rulings are arbitrary and impractical; such feather requirements are unnatural and unreasonable. Really the proper place to show turkeys is at county fairs, where liberal prizes should be offered, large inclosures made for the fowls and where no foolish arbitrary rules should be allowed.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Tennessee is moving in the front line of the turkey procession. Thirty thousand turkeys were shipped on one special for Christmas to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, and $500,000 worth of turks were shipped to other states during the holidays.

Before the parcel post got started a committee from the federated marketing clubs of Pittsburgh had called on 100 farmers' wives of Allegheny county and contracted for their whole output of butter and eggs and left a list of families where they were to mail the produce and guaranteed cash payment.

You never hear of beauty doctors in the country. The farmer's wife and daughter keep their red cheeks and dimples and avoid wrinkles by exercising in the open air. We recommend this way to health and beauty to those ladies who go to Mme. Fix Your Face Up to get their complexions fixed and their curves restored.

When an egg gets hot through, incubation begins. Hot haymows are good for this, but haymow eggs aren't good goods to hold trade, and just one busting on a bled shirt at breakfast will bust any New Year's resolution ever made.

Fighting spirit in roosters is a virtue, a sign of strong vitality, but when these same roosters are allowed to fight and butcher each other and thus spoil each other for beauty and breeding it shows a mighty careless poultryman, who doesn't know enough to take care of a good thing when he sees it—that is, if he sees it.

There are so many people who do not estimate what time and money and care it takes to build up fine stock. Such people generally want a ten dollar bird for 50 cents and consider a fancier a thief and a robber for asking more.

Many a batch of fine eggs has been spoiled by the false register of a defective thermometer. We lost a bunch of extra eggs in this way once, but have never allowed a thermometer to trick us since. Test your thermometer and also set up a thermometer at each corner of the egg tray and thus see whether the incubator egg chamber has an even temperature.

The Ontario department of agriculture, after an exhaustive investigation of fowl tuberculosis, so prevalent in that province, came to the conclusion that it is "intertransmissible between the human or bovine and the avian species to a certain extent," that "the avian bacillus must be considered as not a distinct species, but merely a variety, the differences in character of this organism from the bovine or the human type being due to environment."

L. M. Barnitz.

Necessities of Life.

A merchant in the West Thirties takes pride in selling novelties, tricks and puzzles—things that wiggle or waggle or wuggle or woggle. He buys instanter those clever mechanical inventions, toys and devices. They are originated daily and die perhaps as quickly. You know the kind. When you see them on the sidewalks you stop and look, then dig your hand in your pocket and say, "That's pretty clever. I'll just take one of those home." Then you make it wiggle or waggle or wuggle or woggle for the family, and the next day the spring is broken.

How to display these things and make a department of novelties was a poser. Finally, however, he lumped them in one corner of his establishment and hung over them this description:

"These are things you don't know you are obliged to have until you see them." And standing room in that corner is at a premium.—New York Post.

The County National Bank

OF CLEARFIELD, PA.

The Oldest Bank in Clearfield County

Capital,	$ 500,000
Surplus and Profits,	500,000
Total Invested Capital,	$1,000,000

THE VALUE OF THE BANK TO THE COMMUNITY IS DETERMINED BY:

¶ 1st. The security which it offers for the deposits of the people.

¶ 2nd. Its ability to lend customers their business wants.

¶ In measuring this bank by that standard remember: Its invested capital (capital, surplus and profits) which stands between the depositor and loss, is more than one million dollars.

¶ Its total rescources, which, together with its capital, determines its loaning ability are more than three and one-half million dollars.

LITTLE STRAWS

IT'S the little straws that shows which way the wind blows. It's the little courtesies we extend our depositors that show the spirit that prevails at the CLEARFIELD NATIONAL BANK. The small depositor is as welcome as the large one.

HOUSEHOLD accounts are objects of particular care with us and we hope the ladies will make full use of our facilities. There are writing and rest rooms solely for their use. There is a teller's window where they can get crisp new bills.

IT is unfortunately true that many women have no reliable source of advice in matters financial. When such is the case, our officers are ever ready to extend the most disinterested counsel. If you will but consult with us, we can relieve you of many cares and much anxiety.

THE CLEARFIELD NATIONAL is fully equipped financially and mentally to deal with any problems of banking, finance, foreign exchange, investment, savings and safe deposit.

REYNOLDSVILLE IN THE NINTH

Neither Side Could Score for Eight Innings Yesterday

WAS GREAT PITCHERS' BATTLE

Adams Twirled the Ball in Remarkable Manner—Tomorrow the Niagara Falls Team, Which Played a Ten-Inning Game With DuBois Yesterday, Will Be at Driving Park

The small crowd of fans who journeyed to the Driving park yesterday afternoon to witness the game of baseball between Clearfield and Reynoldsville were will repaid for their trouble. That the game yesterday was the best played in Clearfield for som eyears was attended to by those who saw these two teams battling for two hours after the manner of giants.

"Billy" Adams for the locals, pitched a remarkable game against the hard hitters from Reynoldsville. It was only in the ninth innig that the Jefferson county players could bunch their hits and get across the plate with the one run that won the game.

The game was full of interest from beginnig to ed, both teame fighting hard for supremacy. In the 9th inning the first Reynoldsville man up hit for two bases and the next batter brought him across the plate with a hit.

Each pitcher struck out six men? bases on balls, off Kase 1, off Adams 2; double plays, Thompson, Kennedy.

Score by innings:

Niagra Falls Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the Niagara Falls team will play the local team at Driving park and on Saturday the Pennsylvania Railroad Y. M. C. A. team from Altoona will be here.

These will positively be the last games the Clearfield team will play this season. The patronage of the games has not been satisfactory, and Manager Healey cannot continue to make up deficits out of his own pocket.

The games tomorrow and Saturday should be well patronized as both of the visiting teams are strong and good contests are promised.

The Niagara Falls team which will play here tomorrow defeated Johnsonburg and Ridgway and yesterday played a ten-inning tie game with DuBois, therfeore fans may expect to witness a good game here. The Clearfield team is determined to win the game tomorrow, and they should be encouraged to do so by a large crowd of rooters at the park.

CIVIL COURT

Only One Verdict Returned Thus Far This Week.

In the case of Richard S. Hughes vs the Osceola Coal company, on before the court Wednesday when the Progress went to press, a non suit was entered.

A verdict was rendered in the case of William Gourski vs. Fred Loeb et al., the jury remaining out all night.

Settlement was had in the cases of Otto Caskey vs. Lane Run Coal Co., and William Caskey vs. the same company.

The case of Dr. H. A. Collins vs. August Bra[illegible] on trial.

A KIND ACTION

Body of Manager McCullough Taken Charge of by Another Manager.

The body of Manager McCullough, the "Common Law" company was shipped to Pittsburgh today and the funeral will occur tomorrow. This was in accordance with the request of the widow at Stockton, California.

Manager McDonald, of the "Within the Law" company, took charge of the remains of Mr. McCullough, going to considerable trouble to pay his respects to his fellow theatrical manager coming from DuBois to make arrangements for forwarding the body.

TWO ACCIDENTS

One Man Has Thumb Hurt and Another Has Foot Hurt.

Two accidents occurred on the Wes Side Wednesday, where heavy water pipe is being unloaded. King Shaw had his thumb crushed early in the day by having a pipe fall on his hand and in the afternoon William McKee had his foot badly hurt from a similar cause.

JOHN J. UZZLE DEAD

Well Known Resident of Snow Shoe Passes Away Tuesday.

John J. Uzzle, one of the best known residents of Snow Shoe, died Tuesday in his 80th year.

John Uzzle was known to many of the hunters in the West Branch valley, having entertained at his hotel nimrods who searched for game in the mountains of that section. He was a genial gentleman, and a great lover of nature. His deer park was visited by thousands of persons in th past twenty years.

THE MAN IN THE ORIENT.

He Walks Ahead of His Wife to Guard Her From Danger.

When husband and wife go traveling together in the orient the man walks in front, careless and free, and the woman walks behind, carrying the bundle. Therefore you say: "The oriental cares not for his women. He despises his wife and uses her as a beast of burden." Most occidentals never get further than that. But if you are observant you go out in the jungle yourself, and you discover things. When you walk abroad there are difficulties and dangers. The paths are overgrown and thorny, creepers must be driven off, and buffaloes are ugly creatures.

In the villages are village dogs which snarl and snap. You are a man, yet you will be glad of some one to go in front of you with a hatchet to clear your way. No woman would walk in front, and the man must be free. Now you see the reason why the man walks in front. If you want to confirm it you inquire and find that this is true. Thus the Japanese, the Burman, goes in front of his wife for the same reason that the occidental goes behind—from courtesy. If he continues to do so when it is unnecessary, as in towns where there are roads, it is because a convention once formed is hard to break, east or west.—H. Fielding-Hall in Atlantic Monthly.

A DOG IN A GALE.

Able to Keep His Feet Where a Man Would Be Blown Away.

A gale that blows a man off his feet does not bother a dog at all. He will run about unconcernedly while his master walks with the greatest difficulty. This is for the same reason that a high building is more affected than a low one by a gale. It is also because the dog has four legs to support his body, while a man has only two.

With topsails set a yacht would capsize in a gale which it would ride out with safety if only its lower sails were set, for the leverage exerted by the wind increases in proportion to the height at which the sails are set. A man by reason of his height receives far more force from the wind than does a dog.

Then, again, a dog's center of gravity is much lower in proportion to his height than is a man's; consequently he is not nearly so tippy. And it is obvious that any object supported on four legs is more stable than if supported on two.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

His Cleverness.

"Don't be so lazy. There's plenty of room at the top, and you're clever enough to get there."

"But," replied the lazy genius, "think how clever it is of me to find a place at the bottom, where there isn't so much room."

CONSUL BEN CHASE RECEIVES PROMOTION

President Wilson Advances the Well Known Clearfielder

Hon Ben F. Chase, now Consul to Leeds, England, has been promoted.

Mr. Chase, if the senate confirms his appointment, will go ta Leghorn, on the west coast of Italy, about 200 miles from Rome.

The many friends of the consul in Clearfield county will be pleased to learn that Mr. Chase's ability has been recognized by the present administration.

Jordan Sale Tomorrow.

The constable's sale of the restaurant property of Ralph Jordan is advertised to take place tomorrow, and there is some curiosity to learn who will do the bidding for the articles.

Boys Stealing Grapes.

Boys have been entering gardens in some parts of town, especially east of Third street and North of Locust, stealing grapes. The names of these boys are being secured and their parents will be called on to pay for the stolen fruit

FARM WOMEN ARE TO BE STUDIED

Most Neglected Factor in the Rural Problem

SUGGESTIONS ARE ASKED

Department of Agriculture Will Write to Wives and Daughters of Farmer and Learn How to Improve the Service for These Women—50,000 Letters to be Sent Out.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 11.—David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, within the next few days will address a letter to the women members of 50,000 farm households throughout the United States, requesting them to give him information as to how the department of agriculture can best serve the needs of farm women.

These letter will be addressed "To Housewives in the Homes of the Official Crop Correspondents" and will be sent to the full list of Crop Correspondents for transmission to the women members of their households. With each letter will be supplied a return envelope in which women can forward their suggestions.

Farm Women Neglected.

This inquiry results from receipt of a letter addressed to the secretary in which the writer said:

"The farm woman has been the most neglected factor in the rural problem and she has been especially neglected by the national department of agriculture."

This letter was written not by a woman but by a broad-minded man so thoroughly in touch with the agricultural and domestic needs of the country that his opinions have great weight. Following the receipt of this letter, the secretary determined that the best way for the department to learn how to give these women the fullest possible aid and service which their important place in agriculture production warrants, was to write to the women themselves and ask them to make their own suggestions.

Asked For Information.

In the letter the women are invited to give individual answers to the letter or to discuss the matter in their church societies or women's organizations and send answers representing the combined opinions of the women of their entire communities. The answers are requested not latter than November 15th and this date is set because it will give the women time after harvest to consider the matter and discuss it with their women neighbors.

This letter will go to about twenty leading farms in each of the twenty-eight hundred counties of the United States. Their answers, it is expected will represent the views and opinions of upward of 500,000 farm women. These answers will be carefully considered by the specialists of the department having to do with that branch of agricultural activity.

Freaks of Memory.

As to freaks of memory, Mark Twain has told us of the pilot who knew every bend, creek, current and shallow in the Mississippi river throughout its whole mighty length, but could not remember what he had had for breakfast. Probably most memories are like that. One man I know has a memory that apparently collects only figures. He can always remember your age, even if he forgets your name. He will memorize easily the times of all the trains to a given place, but he generally forgets the platforms from which they start. Reel off to him a column of statistics, and he will recite them again to you a month later without a mistake, having in the meantime forgotten everything else about you. But then he is a born mathematician. Evidently memory is largely a question of sympathy. We remember the things we are really interested in.—London Chronicle.

Advice to Consumptives.

The only safe course for a person suffering from consumption is to select a good physician and be guided in all things by that physician's advice.

If a new cure is discovered during your illness your doctor will know it. If the cure is genuine he will know that and be the first to insist on applying the new remedy to your case. If the so called cure is a fake his caution will save you from wasting valuable time and strength pursuing will-o'-the-wisps.

Meantime, while waiting on new discoveries, he will keep you on the commonplace but effective prescription of rest, plentiful diet and all the fresh air there is. This regime has cured tens of thousands of cases of tuberculosis and will cure hundreds of thousands more.—Chicago Journal.

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Will be Under Charge of Expert Instructor.

C. H. Folmsbee, the new physical director of the Clearfield Y. M. C. A., arrived here Wednesday and immediately entered upon his duties. Mr. Folmsbee comes here from Binghampton, New York, where he was assistant physical director of the Parlor City Y. M. C. A.

With the excellent material that is to be found among the athletes of the local association the new physical director should be able to produce first class teams in the various sports of the day.

Chicken and Corn Soup.

Chicken and corn soup will be served in the U. B. church tomorrow (Friday) evening from 5 to 8 o'clock. Supper 25 cents. Ice cream and cake extra. Everybody cordially invited.

PUZZLED THE CAPTAIN.

The Mysterious Dane Who Boarded His Vessel at Hamburg.

The captain of a vessel which was bringing to America in the fall of 1790 a mysterious passenger who had come aboard at Hamburg watched the latter so closely that at last the passenger said one day: "Sir, this is not the first occasion upon which I have observed the attentive scrutiny you bestow upon me. May I inquire the reason?"

"Sir," responded the candid captain, "you took passage on my ship as a Dane. I don't believe you're anything of the kind."

The passenger smiled. The smile was full of perspicacity and confidence and was followed with, "Pray, tell me, then, what you believe me to be?"

At this question Captain Ewing fidgeted, hesitated and finally blurted out: "Well, to be honest, I think you are a gambler. You've well nigh ruined yourself at home and are now coming to fleece the fools you'll find on shore."

The young man's smile broadened. The next minute he turned grave again, lowered his voice and replied: "Captain Ewing, as you have studied me during this voyage, so I have studied you. I have come to the conclusion that you are a man to be trusted. I am Louis Philippe, duc d'Orleans, eldest son of that Louis Philippe d'Orleans who was slain by the guillotine on the 7th of November, almost three years ago."

She Knew.

"Miss Janet is a long time coming down," he said to the pretty parlor maid. "Perhaps she is—ha, ha—perhaps she is making up her mind whether to see me or not."

The maid smiled coldly.

"No," she said; "it is not her mind she is making up."—Philadelphia Ledger.

DEATH OF PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN

W. P. Eckels, with Leonardson Company, Expires at Kane

W. P. Eckels, secretary and treasurer of the A. W. Leonardson Dry Goods company, Clearfield and Kane, died at his home in Kane Tuesday night after an illness which had affected him all summer. Mr. Eckels has frequently visited the Clearfield stores, having been here at the meeting of the company not long ago.

Mr. Eckels was the son of Rev John Eckels and was born in Greenville, May 22, 1853. He attended public school and later was a student at Allegheny college, graduating from that institution in 1870, receiving his A. B. ad M. A. degrees. In 1881 he went to Kane and filled the position of principal of public schools there for six years. He was elected county superintendent of schools serving nine years, following this, with serving as principal of the Smethport schools for four years.

In 1900 he returned to Kane and for eight years was treasurer of the Kane Window Glass company, leaving this position to connect himself with the Leonardson company, remaining with that company until his death He was financially interested in the Kane Bank and Trust company, and the Kane Window Glass company. He was prominent in the Kane Business Men's association. He was a prominent Mason and a consistent and active church member.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at Kane and will be in charge of the Masons. The store in Clearfield will be closed from 2 to 4 tomorrow out of respect for the memory of the dead member.

Mr. Eckels is survived by his widow and two children.

SPLENDID SHOW DELIGHTS MANY

"Within the Law" Given to a Record-Breaking Audience

GAVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION

Play Highly Moral in Its Teachings And Was Acted in Most Excellent Manner—It Was Probably the Best Performance of the Kind Given Here in Years.

"Within the Law," one of the great metropolitan successes of the past season, was the offering at the Clearfield opera house Wednesday night The presentation of this great play here received a royal ovation, the house being packed and scores of persons standing throughout the performance.

A great story, splendid senic effect, and a strong company combine to make "Within the Law" a play of a thousand. Those who were fortunate enough to witness the production are not surprised that it should receive the endorsement of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, President Wilson, and other notable men.

"Within the Law" is a play of today, in four acts, the place being New York City, the time, the present. The first scene shows the private office of Edward Gilder, owner of the great Emporium. Mary Turner, an employee, has been arrested for a theft of goods, of which she sweears she is innocent. With the assistance of Gilder, who desires to make an example of her, she is sent to prison for three years. Mary secures an interview with the head of the establishment, and tells him that if he will pay his employees a living wage, they will not steal. A girl, she tells him, cannot lead a respectable life in the city on six dollars a week.

Act two shows Mary Turner's apartments in Gramercy Park, four years later. Mary after her release from prison, is at the head of a band of crooks, but she is keeping within the law, and is realizing large spoils as a result of cleverness. Agnes Lynch and Joe Garson, both part of the shady world, are her companions. Mary succeeds in infatuating Richard Gilder, son of Edward Gilder. They are married, and the police come to inform Mary, Carson and Agnes that they must leave for Chicago, or Inspector Burke will find a way to "send them up".

Act three shows Edward Gilder's library. Burke hires a crook to interest Garson in robbing Gilder's home when the inspector will "get" the crowd. Mary knows nothing of this as she insists that all of their operations must be "within the law". The inspector gets word to her, and she gains entrance into the Gilder home, begging Garson to desist. It is too late. Young Gilder finds them there and Garson kills the man who deceives him. The others get away.

At the office of Inspector Burke at police headquarters next morning, Garson is given the "third degree" and confesses to save Mary, whom the Inspector accuses of having committed the murder.

'You can't beat the law, there's a weak link somewhere," says the Inspector, and Gilder succeeds in winning Mary back to an honest life.

The play presents a powerful moral and that the really remarkable company presenting it was appreciated here was evidenced by the storms of applause and repeated curtain calls accorded the stars.

The management of the Clearfield Opera House is to be congratulated upon securing at the very start of the season, a play such as "Within the Law."

NOT ALL JUDGES

Some Humor Injected Into the Judicial Campaign.

Wednesday two gentlemen standing in front of the Trust building were approached by a stranger who inquired.

"Are you gentlemen judges?"

"No," replied one of the citizens.

'Well," said the stranger," that's strange. I've been in town two days and every man I have met is either a judge or a candidate for judge."

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

Woodland Young People Erjoy a Pleasant Evening.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Sarah Lamich at Woodland, in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Alma, Wednesday. Many good games were played and delicious refreshmen were served. Those present were:

Misses Jennie and Alice Myers, Emma Hummll, Pearl Barger and Ivi Baugardner; Messrs. Charley Feight, Cooper, Ordie Meise and Charlie Davi and brother, of Clearfield, and Lee and Bintus McDowell and Carl Hummell.

All departed for their homes, declaring that they had had a fine time and wishing Miss Alma more happy brithdays.

RAILROAD TRESPASSING

In issuing a warning to the public to keep off its right of way the New York Central Railway company joins other railroad corporations in an attempt to prevent the killing of pedestrians who have a penchant for perambulating upon railroad tracks. There are people who will ignore this caution, and in time they will join those who in the past acted just as thoughtlessly and who are now far removed from railroad activities.

Turn a flock of hens loose in a ten acre field and every last one of them will make a break for a patch of weeds in a four-by-six enclosure surrounded by a twenty foot fence nearby. Turn a hundred persons into the byways and they will gradually gravitate to the railroad tracks, be the walking ever so good in the highways. This may not prove that human beings partake of the characteristics of fowls, but it does indicate that there is an irresistible impulse in the human breast which forces men to walk on railroad tracks when it is less dangerous to walk on the highways.

Despite the many warnings and arrests the number of persons killed by walking on the railroads exceeds the number of persons killed at grade crossings in this state. Keep off the railroad. The rails are laid for the use of locomotives, not of human beings, and sooner or later the locomotive will get the man who persists in using the railroad as a path to his destination.

AUTUMN ARBOR DAY.

In issuing his announcement of the autumn Arbor date as October 24, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer states that the "trees are our friends." This is a truism which has come home to many people in this state, but which has been too long ignored by many other The owner of trees is too often inclined to look upon them as incumbrances of his land,and in many instances while forests were destroyed in order that lumbermen might reap a little temporary profit.

Whether a tree affords shade or is of commercial value it ought to be protected from injury, if possible. When of marketable size a tree may be cut down, but for every tree that is converted into lumber another tree should be planted. It has only been in late years that the people of Pennsylvania have been awakened to the necessity for planting trees to replace those so ruthlessly destroyed in the past. Even the railroads which are now planting hundreds of thousands of trees annually, were indifferent to reforestration until a few years ago.

Clearfield derives much of her beauty from the trees which line her streets and afford shade in summer and protect the citizens from the cold blast in winter. Many of the trees in this town have been neglected and their present codition has confronted the shade tree commission with a problem not easily nor readily solved. Unless the advice of the friends of the trees and of those who wish to restore to some extent the damage that was done years ago is adopted by the public the future will see the hills and valleys of Pennsylvania children should be taught the value of arbor days and be persuaded to plant trees whenever the occasion presents itself.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Whatever other deductions may be drawn from the election in Maine on Monday, it must be pain that the voters of that state desire to register their emphatic disapproval of the policies of the present Democratic national administration. The administration sought to encompass the election of a Democrat to congress in the Third Maine district for the purpose of inspiring the voters of the party with the spirit of faith and confidence in President Wilson. The Dmeocratic candidate, while a good man, was defeated, although the district went strongly Democratic two years ago and gave Wilson a big majority last fall.

The Democratic juggling with the tariff has caused a revolt against the party, not only in Maine, but in every northern state, and the passage by the senate of the tarif bill forced upon congress by President Wilson is certain to be the rock upon which the Democratic party will split wide apart in the next presidential election The relatively small vote cast by the Progressives in the Third Maine district may be explained upon the hypothesis that Progressives stood by the policy of protection rather the that they had become weary of remaining outside the Republican ranks

Mrs. Pankhurst has disappeared. No, it is not a certainty that she has immolated herself for the good of the cause.

The stage will never be elevated in New York so long as people of degenerate minds patronize immoral shows.

Whose duty is to see that small boys are not sold or given cigarettes?

Another comet is said to be coming toward the earth, but it will have to hurry if it wants to get here before the primary elections.

Somebody suggests that the United States exchnage Harry K. Thaw for Mrs. Pankhurst. Sure, and throw in Jerome to boot.

The fly that is swatted now will not come back to bother you next summer.

Football will soon supersede baseball and the barbers can take a vacation.

Some of the candidates are hoping that the frost next Tuesday will not affect them any worse than did that on Tuesday night.

TRICKS OF LIGHT.

Why People Sometimes Feel Dull or Uncomfortable at Table.

How few people realize that they are actually suffering from snow blindness in miniature every time they read or work over a white surface on which a brilliant light shines directly. Half tone paper, for instance, which is the common medium for the majority of books we read, will throw a blinding glare into the eye of the reader if the light strikes it at the wrong angle, and it forms an excellent test for the selection of proper lighting for a room and for the placing of the lighting fixtures, for lighting diffusion should be such as to allow comfortable reading from half tone paper in any position.

A dome hanging above a dining table on which is white cloth causes the light to reflect into the eyes of those around the table at an angle that produces muscular strain. This has a peculiar effect upon the senses, and drowsiness and mental inertia are apt to result. People are apt to complain of a feeling of dullness at table or that they have indigestion when it is, in reality, the effect of the light.

A too brilliant light shining directly into the eye plays many curious psychological tricks. Deaf people, for instance, cannot hear so well if they are facing a brilliantly lighted room, and, as for being able to see better by a bright light than by a dim one, exactly the reverse is the case, for detail of objects become practically lost to the eye when too much light enters it.—Suburban Life Magazine.

Persuasion.

"I can't marry you," she said. "You are old enough to be my father."

"Don't hesitate on that account. Ten years from now nobody will suspect it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Imitative.

Mother—Whatever are you doing to poor dolly, child? Child—I'm just going to put her to bed, mummy. I've taken off her hair, but I can't get her teeth out.—London Tit-Bits.

ROOF CAMPAIGN IS THE LATEST

Suffragists Hold Mass Meetings on the Housetops.

ANTIS BEFORE CONGRESS.

Rival Woman's Organizations In Washington Avert Dullness of Midsummer. Midair Gatherings Said to Be Highly Successful—Reach Many Unbelievers Hitherto Unapproachable.

Washington, —While their unconverted sisters were insisting before the house rules committee that a majority of their sex did not want the ballot, delegates to the National Council of Women Voters met to discuss ways and means for winning universal suffrage throughout the country. The sessions have been devoted to consideration of policies and reforms to be pressed in 1914.

At the early session the principal subject considered was the legislative proposals to be advanced by women next year in those suffrage states in which the legislatures meet. Miss Helen Todd of California led the discussion. Reports on suffrage conditions in Alaska were made by Mrs. James Wickersham, wife of the delegate from the territory; in Illinois by Mrs. Claudius U. Stone and in Kansas by Mrs. Victor Murdock, wife of the representative from that state.

The anti-suffragists had their innings when, led by Mrs. F. W. Scott of New York, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, they appeared for an informal hearing before Chairman Henry and members of the house rules committee.

They were prepared to prove, they told the committee, that the agitation was kept up by a comparatively small number, and that the great majority of American women looked with disfavor upon their sex entering the turmoil of politics.

Pros Hold Roof Rallies.

Suffragists have launched a campaign on the roofs of scores of apartment houses. In one fashionable quarter of the northwest section the apartment buildings are so closely packed together that speakers for the "cause" have been enabled to address audiences on two and sometimes three, roofs at one speaking.

The roof garden rallies are said by the crusaders to be highly successful, as they are enabling them to reach unbelievers who will not attend their street meetings.

ARGENTINE ENVOY COMING.

Mother and Babies Fatally Hurt.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Stephen Drokowski and her twin babies, whom she was wheeling in a gocart, were fatally injured when struck by the Monon flier at a south side crossing. The babies were thrown about twenty-five feet on opposite sides of the track.

One of the many strange sights in the plains of southern Africa is a party of waltzing ostriches. Their queer antics have been described thus:

"When there are a number of them they will start off in the morning and after running a few hundred yards will stop and with raised wings will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting and to make their court. They kneel on their ankles, opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The birds appear at this time so absorbed in their occupation as to forget all that is going on around them and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."

Puzzled Jurymen.

At a recent sessions a prisoner was indicted for pocketpicking, and to most people in court the clearest possible case was made out by the prosecution.

"Have you anything you would like to tell the jury before they retire?" said the judge.

"Well, all I wanter say is, I hopes as 'ow they'll give me the benefit of the doubt," replied the prisoner despondently.

The jury considered their verdict. They were no little time over it.

"Can I assist you in any way, gentlemen?" said the judge, as last becoming impatient.

"We are almost agreed, me lud," said the foreman, "but we can't quite understand what the doubt is the prisoner wishes us to give him the benefit of."—London Anawers.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS

Many to be Held in Clearfield County

STRONG SPEAKERS ENGAGED

These Gatherings Have Been Arranged With a View to Arousing the People to the Necessity For Taking Greater Interest in Judgship Campaign—Dates of Meetings.

Meetings have been arranged by the Temprance Workers League of Clearfield county for practically every district in the county, prior to the primary election, Tuesday September 16.

Some of the strongest speakers in the county will present the cause of the Temperance Workers League, touching especially on the Judgeship contest.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to come out and hear the discussions. Ladies are especially welcome. The Temperance Workers League representing the Prohibition party, the Anti-Saloon League, the W. C. T. VANISHED WILD PIGEONS.

Once They Darkened Our Skies, but Are Never Seen Now.

Old residents of Olean—some of them not so very old, either—remember distinctly the time when flocks of wild pigeons flew over the then straggling village of Olean in such countless numbers as to almost obscure the very sky, when flock followed flock in such close succession as to partly give the impression that each was but the separated group and companion voyagers of the flock that had but just passed overhead on swiftly whirring wings. These flocks passed in one long procession for days at a time in the early spring and even for weeks. Thousands and even hundreds of thousands of them, if the reports of those days were to be taken implicitly, nested in the woods of Alton and Big Shanty, a short distance across the Pennsylvania line.

All at once these myriad flocks of pigeons ceased to come—disappeared abruptly, mysteriously, and apparently forever. Whence did they go so suddenly and so completely? No one has yet been able to answer that question. Since that time game authorities and naturalists have searched in vain for further traces of the birds, not only in this vicinity, but all over North America. Large sums have been offered by magazines as well as individuals for a nest or even a single egg of the passenger pigeon.—Olean (N. Y.) Times.

Gladstone on Disraeli.

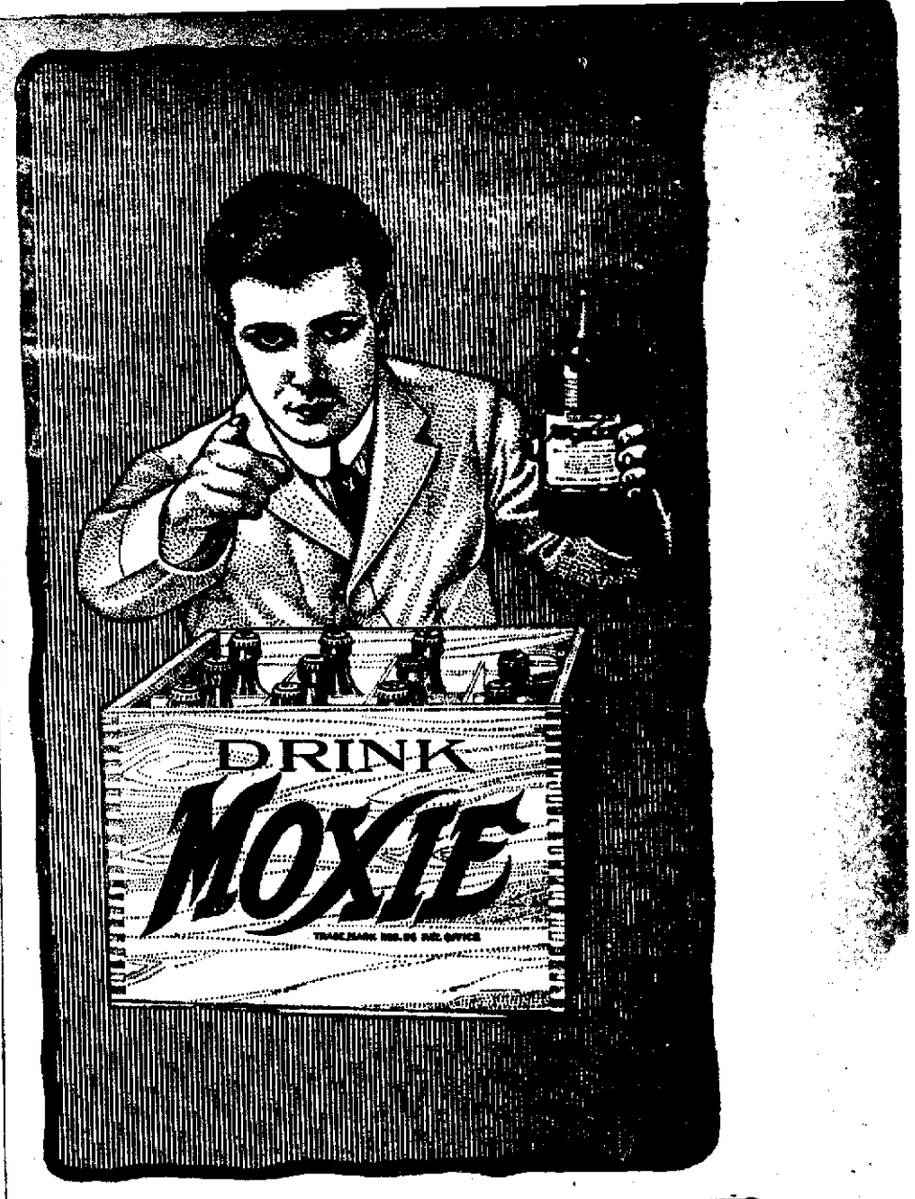
G. A. Storey, A. R. A., recorded a touching incident he witnessed at the academy banquet of 1881 when a portrait for which Beaconsfield had sat to Millais shortly before his death was among the exhibits. "This unfinished work, pale and even ghastly, was in one of the side galleries. Gladstone, catching sight of the picture, went and stood long in front of it. * * * No one disturbed him. At the end of the feast Gladstone rose and in the finest and most feeling tone delivered a panegyric on the great man who had passed away. In a voice clear and sympathetic and full of emotion he told us of his admiration for the sterling qualities of the man who, though opposed to him in politics, was in no other sense an opponent. He spoke as only one generous in heart and of a broad and great mind could speak of another great man who had passed away. The speech surpassed anything I ever heard."—London Chronicle.

A Park of Glaciers.

Glacier National park is situated in northern Montana, 260 miles northwest of Yellowstone park in an air line and 447 miles by railroad. It is under the control and supervision of the secretary of the interior, who is represented in the actual administration of the park by a superintendent, assisted by a number of park rangers who patrol the reservation. The park is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfoot reservation and on the west and south by the Flathead river. It has an area of about 915,000 acres and derives its name from many glaciers which are scattered throughout its area. There are eighty glaciers between five square miles and a few acres in area. The park is a rugged mountainous region and contains over 250 lakes, which are surrounded by steep and beautifully wooded mountains.

Time in Teheran.

"Time is a difficult problem in Teheran," says the Baroness d'Hermalle in "Peeps Into Persia." "At approximately midday a cannon is fired on the Cossack parade ground, but the approximation depends entirely on the soldier who fires it. We all think he fires it when he feels hungry, as it is very erratic. Anyhow, when invited out to dinner we always inquire of our host whether he keeps legation or gun time. Sometimes there is half an hour's difference. Neither of these times is ordinarily correct. Correct time, not a commodity in request in Teheran, is kept by the Indo-European telegraphs, for whom it is telegraphed from London every morning at daybreak, when the line is clear, so that connection is practically instantaneous."



One or the Other.

Her class was bright, and the teacher was proud of it. She was conducting a quiz in geography.

"In what zone do we live?" asked the teacher.

"The temp'rut zone," chanted the well drilled class.

"Right. And what do we mean by 'temperate?' Willie, you may answer."

"Temp'rut is where it's freezin' cold half the time an' roastin' hot the other half the time."

If Willie wasn't sent to the head for that it wasn't because he didn't deserve the honor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Official Rat Catchers.

One of the earliest of official rat catchers appears to have been a woman. An English warrant dated 1635 announces that, "Whereas, Elizabeth Wickley is employed in killing of rattes and other vermins, in and about His Ma'te's Stores and Houses in ye Tower of London, I have therefore thought fitt to allow her ye sum of eight pounds ($40) per annum." During the next century the office was invested with great dignity, and the Gentleman's Magazine for 1741 recorded the appointment of Mr. Gower as rat killer to his majesty, "a place of £100 (about $500) a year, an honorable office."

The Typewriter Used by "Big Business"

—Yours for 17 Cents a Day!

The Oliver Typewriter No. 5--the famous Printype Model used by the world's greatest firms and corporations--is offered to anyone, anywhere, for 17 Cents a Day.

The same model which the purchasing agents of "Big Business" buy by the HUNDRED, now sold to the public for PENNIES.

A Profit-Sharing Agency Plan

We now have in operation in the United States and Canada more than 15,000 Oliver Local Agencies. These agents have received hundreds of thousands of dollars in profits on sales of Oliver Typewriters.

There are still hundreds of places where no agencies are established.

Applicants for Oliver Local Agencies must be earnest workers. They need not have had previous experience.

We enroll them at once in The Oliver School of Practical Salesmanship and teach them selling—all as part of the free training given Oliver Agents.

When they have proved their worth, we promote them to the direct service, in which they may rise to the highest positions in the Company.

One of our general officials began his Oliver career as a Local Agent at Waco, Texas.

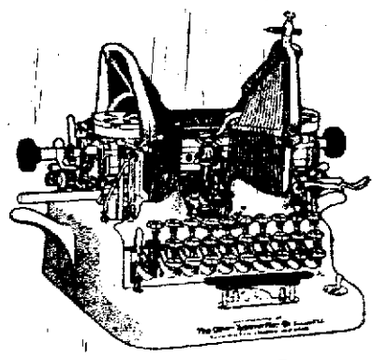
Printype—OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

The Oliver is the best seller because it is the best typewriter. It has many exclusive features. It is the only typewriter that PRINTS PRINT. It really owns and controls Printype, now conceded to be the greatest single advance ever made in typewriter construction.

We GUARANTEE Printype to be exclusively used on Oliver Typewrters.

Oliver Agents sell Printype Olivers in thousands. The demand is voluntary and steady.



Oliver Agents are permitted to sell on our 17-cents-a-Day Plan, which puts the Oliver in evenyone's reach. Agents may even secure their own sample outfits on the 17-Cents-a-day Plan and let their agency earnings help to carry the deal.

Oliver agents are protected in exclusive selling rights in the territory given them. They own the local typewriter business.

When you apply, be sure to give some details about the typewriter sales possibilities of your town, village or city.

And Don't Delay

We like and reward promptness.

Full details of Agency Proposition, a specimen of Printype, the 17-Cents-a-Day Plan and other interesting information will be sent immediately on receipt of your application.

A RESUME ON ROOSTS.

Poultry house furniture should be cheap, simple, take up little room, just fit the flock and be movable for quick cleaning and transfer.

Roosts should have these characteristics. We present two for inspection:

The first shows a set with dropping boards nailed up in a corner. This roost is too heavy, costly, it cannot be moved for cleaning and red mites or ticks will hide and breed behind it like bedbugs in the cracks of a bughouse building, and if these poultry pests once get a hold a continuous fight must be kept up and often the roost be torn out to get at them. Same with stationary nests.

The second is a cheap, simple affair made of trestles, slats and a low platform, low down for big breeds. Additional trestles may be used to raise the dropping boards off of floor for lighter breeds, and thus the only floor space occupied will be by toes of trestles.

This roost does not touch the wall, may be taken down and out for cleaning in a few minutes, is transferable and may be moved to the windows or set up in the yard in hot weather.

OUR FAVORITE ROOST.

Much of poultry vigor and poultry profit are lost through the ravages of insect pests, and the poultryman who neglects to use every precaution against these destroyers need not expect full success.

DON'TS.

Don't try to raise poultry in town without a fence or your neighbors will quickly take offense.

Don't work with one eye on the clock and the other on the boss. You'll get caught in the cogs and go to the dogs.

Don't bite off more chicklets than you can chew. Better hatch a reasonable number and raise them than to hatch a lot and raise them not.

Don't forget that every egg that doesn't hatch and every chick that dies is so much off the profit. The financial finale depends on the detail.

Don't over the first batches go crazy and over the others get lazy. Be enthusiastic, optimistic and industrious all the way through in what you do and providence will favor you.

Don't waste time arguing about breeds and methods. If you're sure you're right then go ahead, but don't be a bullhead.

Don't expect your wife to make much on mongrel hens. Thoroughbred strains for beauty and gains.

Don't sell preserved eggs for fresh. Some customer slick will see through your trick you'll be jerked up quick and then what a shame for a few pennies gain you've lost your good name.

TURKEYS AT SHOWS.

It is often wondered why more turkeys are not seen at exhibitions, but there are reasons.

Turkeys are range birds, and the close confinement at shows is very hard on them.

In many cases they refuse to eat and they are so difficult to cage and handle that many shows offer no prizes and refuse to receive them.

Beside most turkey raisers refuse to raise turkeys to comply with show requirements, especially in regard to feather markings and weights as demanded by the American Poultry association, whose rules govern so many shows and fairs.

A brown wing feather, a primary with less than half the white bars, a single white feather, a brown feather in tail coverts, should not disqualify a fine Bronze.

Nor should one slate feather debar a Narragansett, nor a gray quill disqualify a White Holland, and it's the same with weights.

A FANCY SHOW TURKEY.

For instance standard weights for Bronze are: Adult cock, thirty-six pounds; yearling cock, thirty-three pounds; cockerel, twenty-five pounds; hen, twenty pounds; pullet, fifteen pounds.

The market call for turkeys is medium weight and heavyweights are bad breeders. Yet, if a Bronze fancier enters a turkey cock that weighs less than thirty pounds, a yearling under twenty-five, a cockerel less than eighteen, a hen less than fourteen, a pullet under ten pounds weight, they are all disqualified.

Such weight rulings are arbitrary and impractical; such feather requirements are unnatural and unreasonable. Really the proper place to show turkeys is at county fairs, where liberal prizes should be offered, large inclosures made for the fowls and where no foolish arbitrary rules should be allowed.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Tennessee is moving in the front line of the turkey procession. Thirty thousand turkeys were shipped on one special for Christmas to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, and $500,000 worth of turks were shipped to other states during the holidays.

Before the parcel post got started a committee from the federated marketing clubs of Pittsburgh had called on 100 farmers' wives of Allegheny county and contracted for their whole output of butter and eggs and left a list of families where they were to mail the produce and guaranteed cash payment.

You never hear of beauty doctors in the country. The farmer's wife and daughter keep their red cheeks and dimples and avoid wrinkles by exercising in the open air. We recommend this way to health and beauty to those ladies who go to Mme. Fix Your Face Up to get their complexions fixed and their curves restored.

When an egg gets hot through, incubation begins. Hot haymows are good for this, but haymow eggs aren't good goods to hold trade, and just one busting on a bled shirt at breakfast will bust any New Year's resolution ever made.

Fighting spirit in roosters is a virtue, a sign of strong vitality, but when these same roosters are allowed to fight and butcher each other and thus spoil each other for beauty and breeding it shows a mighty careless poultryman, who doesn't know enough to take care of a good thing when he sees it—that is, if he sees it.

There are so many people who do not estimate what time and money and care it takes to build up fine stock. Such people generally want a ten dollar bird for 50 cents and consider a fancier a thief and a robber for asking more.

Many a batch of fine eggs has been spoiled by the false register of a defective thermometer. We lost a bunch of extra eggs in this way once, but have never allowed a thermometer to trick us since. Test your thermometer and also set up a thermometer at each corner of the egg tray and thus see whether the incubator egg chamber has an even temperature.

The Ontario department of agriculture, after an exhaustive investigation of fowl tuberculosis, so prevalent in that province, came to the conclusion that it is "intertransmissible between the human or bovine and the avian species to a certain extent," that "the avian bacillus must be considered as not a distinct species, but merely a variety, the differences in character of this organism from the bovine or the human type being due to environment."

C. M. Barnitz.

Necessities of Life.

A merchant in the West Thirties takes pride in selling novelties, tricks and puzzles—things that wiggle or waggle or wuggle or woggle. He buys instanter those clever mechanical inventions, toys and devices. They are originated daily and die perhaps as quickly. You know the kind. When you see them on the sidewalks you stop and look, then dig your hand in your pocket and say, "That's pretty clever. I'll just take one of those home." Then you make it wiggle or waggle or wuggle or woggle for the family, and the next day the spring is broken.

How to display these things and make a department of novelties was a poser. Finally, however, he lumped them in one corner of his establishment and hung over them this description:

"These are things you don't know you are obliged to have until you see them." And standing room in that corner is at a premium.—New York Post.

The County National Bank

OF CLEARFIELD, PA.

The Oldest Bank in Clearfield County

Capital,	$ 500,000
Surplus and Profits,	500,000
Total Invested Capital,	$1,000,000

THE VALUE OF THE BANK TO THE COMMUNITY IS DETERMINED BY:

¶ 1st. The security which it offers for the deposits of the people.

¶ 2nd. Its ability to lend customers their business wants.

¶ In measuring this bank by that standard remember: Its invested capital (capital, surplus and profits) which stands between the depositor and loss, is more than one million dollars.

¶ Its total rescources, which, together with its capital, determines its loaning ability are more than three and one-half million dollars.

LITTLE STRAWS

IT'S the little straws that shows which way the wind blows. It's the little courtesies we extend our depositors that show the spirit that prevails at the CLEARFIELD NATIONAL BANK. The small depositor is as welcome as the large one.

HOUSEHOLD accounts are objects of particular care with us and we hope the ladies will make full use of our facilities. There are writing and rest rooms solely for their use. There is a teller's window where they can get crisp new bills.

IT is unfortunately true that many women have no reliable source of advice in matters financial. When such is the case, our officers are ever ready to extend the most disinterested counsel. If you will but consult with us, we can relieve you of many cares and much anxiety.

THE CLEARFIELD NATIONAL is fully equipped financially and mentally to deal with any problems of banking, finance, foreign exchange, investment, savings and safe deposit.

ALL partnerships are not congenial or satisfactory, but there is one partner with whom you will never have trouble; A SAVING ACCOUNT. It grows like a rolling snow ball. It is a safe partner and if you would like such a one, step into our bank any day and open the account. This is a partnership that is sure to be profitable, possibly not as large profits as some other partnership might bring, but you are sure to be a winner.
